VIETNAM

With her origins shrouded in the mists of time, Vietnam has evolved a rich oral tradition of myth and legend. Its mythology contends the people are descended from a dragon and a fairy. Throughout time, Vietnam has forged her identity through the highs and lows of history. Today it has become a robust and vibrant commercial hub and thriving travel destination in the heart of Southeast Asia. Vietnam offers a magical mix of tropical beaches, post-colonial charm, a string of world heritage sites, stunning inland scenery, world-famous cuisine and a natural flair for hospitality. It is no longer a low-end tourist destination - with luxury Hotels, world-class golf courses, train experiences and beautiful cruises and other facilities spanning the length of the country. Vietnam has French colonial influence with unique architecture, tree-lined boulevards, majestic scenery, a rich traditional culture, easy going and welcoming locals.

VIETNAM - DESTINATIONS

Ho Chi Minh City: Ho Chi Minh City (formerly Saigon) is the heart and soul of Vietnam. It's a bustling, dynamic centre, the largest city in the country, the economic capital and the cultural trendsetter. The streets, where much of the city's life takes place, are a myriad of street markets, shops, pavement cafes, stands-on-wheels and vendors selling wares spread out on sidewalks. Within the teeming metropolis are the timeless traditions and beauty of an ancient culture.

Hanoi: Hanoi means 'City on a River Bend' and the city has been inhabited since Neolithic times. The capital city's variety of beautiful architecture, historical sites and pleasant atmosphere is conducive to exploration on foot. Take a stroll or cycle through the Old Quarters of "36 streets and 36 wares" where artisans still ply their century-old trades and visit the many souvenir shops and art galleries.

Halong Bay: Halong Bay is Vietnam's most stunning natural treasure, comprised of approximately 3,000 islands which rise from the emerald waters forming a spectacular seascape of limestone pillars. The exceptional aesthetic values of this site are complemented by its great biological interest. The bay is also dotted with numerous grottoes and caves filled with a variety of stalagmites and stalactites.

Hoi An: Hoi An was a bustling seaport until the 19th century and the architecture of the city reflects the influence of Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese, French and British traders. Hoi An is popular for its quaint charm and interesting mix of architecture dating as far back as the 18th century. Hoi An is best explored on foot - visit its ancient quarters which feature Chinese temples, original wooden houses, souvenir shops and art galleries. Hoi An has also acquired fame as being the tailoring capital of the world for its scores of tailoring shops.

Nha Trang: Nha Trang is a seaside town on the South Central Coast, popular because of its pristine beach, best scuba diving centre of Vietnam as well as lots of interesting places and delicious food to enjoy. Human settlement in Nha Trang date back to the Cham Empire, though there wasn't much more here than small fishing villages. The French recognized that this beautiful bay, with its islands and white sand beaches, made for a perfect bathing spot, and began the transformation into a resort town.

Mekong Delta: Mekong river has been venerated and worshipped for thousands of years. Mekong Delta is a maze of rivers, connecting people and experiences. It is home to floating markets, local villages, little swamps and islands. One can discover historical sights, mesmerizing landscapes and beautiful wildlife, while cruising on innumerable canals, streams and rivers of Mekong Delta.

Phu Quoc: Phu Quoc Island is one of Vietnam's rare treasures, a paradise in the turquoise water. The untouched natural environment, most of the island is a National Park. It has beautiful, pristine sandy white beaches and sparkling blue waters, mixed with some thriving towns make it a wonderful place with something for everyone. The island is only a one hour flight from Ho Chi Minh City, this amazing island is a wonderful retreat and a great place to unwind.

Da Nang: With beautiful beaches, and great street food, and a growing collection of cafes, restaurants, and bars, it's no wonder that the Da Nang sport some of the broadest smiles in the country. Da Nang is an amazing beach city. The warm sands of My Khe Beach sweep south from the mountains of Son Tra Peninsula. Da Nang hosts some of the countries top luxury resorts.

Hue: Hue was Vietnam's political capital from 1802 till 1945. Situated on the Perfume River, it was always a cultural, religious and educational centre with many pagodas, the tombs of the emperors and a citadel built in 1687. Regarded as a unique city due to its retention of the original architecture and relics of its royal history as well as being an important centre of Buddhism with hundreds of temples and pagodas.

Sapa: Sapa lies in the north near the Chinese border. Sapa is a colourful town of H'mong and Dzaio people from the local hill tribes who head into the town's market every day to trade their produce. There's a main market every Saturday, but there's a lower key one every other day during the week. These people will have undergone no formal education, but it's a great place to interact with locals as many youngsters have picked up a basic level of English.

CAMBODIA

Cambodia conjures up images of a glorious and mysterious history and rich cultural heritage. For most, Cambodia will be synonymous with the great ancient temple city of Siem Reap. Besides the marvelous temple complexes of Angkor Wat and Bantay Srei, a trip to Cambodia is incomplete without a visit to Phnom Penh.

You will be amazed to see and hear about 4000 years of history of this little-known kingdom, which kept its doors closed to international tourism till a few years back. After about 35 years of non-stop war, this beautiful country has re-emerged from the darkness. Since the time of the Vietnam war in the sixties followed by the reign of terror of the Khmer Rouge, a Vietnamese takeover, and a further 20 years of civil war. War, of late 60's destroyed much of the already-struggling economy, but it stabilized after a new regime took power in 1979. A series of reforms started in 1992 have seen the country make steady progress to catch up with the times. Cambodia is among the fastest growing economies in the region.

Siem Reap

Siem Reap is a small colonial town with some fine examples of French colonial architecture, though modern developments have been swift here in recent years since the demise of the Khmer Rouge. It's the home of the magnificent Angkor ruins and the famous temple complex of Angkor Wat. The jungle setting and silence enhance the mystery of the temples and many of them remain in good condition.

Phnom Penh

Phnom Penh, Cambodia's capital retains an undeniable charm despite its tumultuous and often violent past. The crumbling colonial architecture makes an attractive backdrop to bustling street-side cafes and the redeveloped riverfront precinct. The city has several impressive Wats but the pride of place is a spectacular Silver Pagoda, one of the few places in Cambodia, where artifacts' embodying the richness of Khmer culture were preserved by the Khmer Rouge.

Sihanoukville

Sihanoukville is an inspiring beach destination. Bearing a history of a little more than half a century, the small but fascinating city holds a charm of its own which leaves the visitors absolutely enticed. The city had become popular with its pristine beaches, unexplored terrains, tranquil ambience and serene beauty.

Battambang

Battambang is a riverside town, home to some of the best-preserved, French colonial architecture in Cambodia. It makes a great base for visiting the nearby temples, such as Phnom Banon and Wat Ek Phnom, as well as the close by villages. The network of charming old French shop houses clustered along the riverbank is the real highlight here, and there is a number of Wats scattered around the town.

Koh Rong Island

Located near the coast of Sihanoukville, Cambodia, Koh Rong is famous for its serene beauty. Often described as an 'island paradise' by visiting tourists, the island boasts pristine white sandy beaches, warm crystal-clear ocean waters, and a hot tropical climate.

LAOS

Laos shares borders with China to the North, Myanmar to Northwest, Thailand to the West, Cambodia to the South and Vietnam to the East. The Mekong River is the main geographical feature in the west and, in fact, forms a natural border with Thailand in some areas. Laos, the Jewel of the Mekong, is rapidly becoming a new and exciting tourism destination which offers a diversity of unspoiled ethnic lifestyles and traditions, as well as some of the richest and most extensive ecosystems of the region. A shopper's paradise from high-end boutiques to humble market stalls. Both Luang Prabang and Vientiane are teeming with gorgeous boutiques showcasing high-quality hand-woven textiles.

Luang Prabang

This ancient town described as an outstanding example of the fusion of traditional architecture and Lao urban structures built by the Europeans. The tiny town is encircled by mountains and is at the confluence of the Nam Khan and Mekong Rivers. Its palm-lined riverbanks, ochre daubed houses, terracotta roofs and saffron-robed monks all come together to form a picture postcard increasingly difficult to find in Southeast Asia. The city centre has most of the attractions like former royal palaces, 33 Wats, colonial buildings and trading houses in the vicinity. This former Royal capital still remains the main centre for Buddhist learning in Laos and is the perfect location for spiritual contemplation.

Vientiane

Vientiane is the centre of Laos culture, it looks more like a collection of villages than a city. Laos reopened its doors to foreign visitors about 15 years back and Vientiane has since changed with dizzying rapidity to accommodate modernization. Central Boulevard is reminiscent of the Champ Elysees, another telling sign of the city's French heritage. French-style buildings stand next to Buddhist monasteries and monuments, each telling a story of the country's rich, cultural and somewhat troubled past.

Xieng Khouang (Plain of Jars)

Xieng-Khouang is famous as it is the place to view the mysterious Plains of Jars. The hundreds of giant stone jars are strewn all over the plateau - carved out of solid hunks of rock from surrounding mountains, no one really knows why they are there. Theories range from the view that they were made to store wine or they were made to store dead human bodies, as was the practice of ancient believers. The countryside in Xieng Khouang is breathtakingly beautiful, untouched, and as of now, still not fully exploited by tourism. It offers the awesome beauty of high green mountains and rugged karst formations.

THAILAND

Thailand is a wondrous kingdom, featuring Buddhist temples, exotic wildlife, and spectacular islands. Along with a fascinating history and a unique culture that includes delectable Thai food and massage, Thailand features a modern capital city and friendly people who epitomize Thailand's "land of smiles" reputation. Whether you enjoy the bustling city of Bangkok, the lush vegetation of the north or the stunning beaches along the coast, Thailand has something to offer everyone.

SUGGESTED ITINERARIES - PRIVATE TOURING

Bangkok

Bangkok is the capital city and the largest city in Thailand. It's strategic position in Southeast Asia, Thailand acted as a buffer zone between the British and French colonial empires. As a city, Bangkok, has earned itself the reputation of being a dynamic independent and influential city, making it one of the leading cities in Southeast Asia. This city has a lot to offer- Buddhist temples by the dozen, cultural landmarks, shopping, cuisine, nightlife, a red light district which is illegal but tolerated! Bangkok attracts visitors each year by the millions.

Kanchanaburi

The western province of Thailand has not only gained fame for its strikingly beautiful landscape - characterized by impressive waterfalls and caves, tranquil river scenery and verdant national parks - but also for its tragic history. During World War II Asian laborers and allied prisoners of war were forced to build the Burma-Siam Railway through the province. The most famous reminder of this tragedy is the "Bridge on the River Kwai," which was immortalized in books and movie of the same name.

Phuket/ Khao Lak

The tourist mecca, Phuket is one of the world's best known resort islands. Whether you prefer a stunning secluded beach, the bustling nightlife of Patong, or a scenery packed day trip to Phi Phi, Phuket never fails to impress. Known as the 'Pearl of the Andaman' it offers plenty of natural and man-made attractions both on the island and adjacent coastal area. The island comprises of a series of beach resort areas, all with its own sweeping bay, a well developed tourist centre and a great holiday environment.

Krabi

One of the rising stars in Thailand's tourism industry is unquestionably Krabi. Many visitors are discovering the picturesque tropical islands, which come in many sizes and shapes, that are located just offshore this southern coastal province. Encircled by lush vegetation and towering limestone outcrops, Krabi is an ideal place for beach and nature lovers. Major attractions include the Susan Hoi (Shell Cemetery), Nopparat Thara Beach and the spectacular islands of Ko Phi Phi and Ko Lanta, famed for their unspoiled beaches surrounded by clear blue waters and coral reefs with abundant marine life.

Koh Samui

Ko Samui, Thailand's third largest island (247 square kilometers), lies just offshore the province of Surat Thani. Dubbed "The Coconut Island," Ko Samui is one of the most popular beach and island resorts in Thailand with over half a million visitors each year. It has come to world famous due to its beautiful, long beach with powdery white sand and crystal clear waters, surrounded by coconut groves.

Koh Chang

Set in the Gulf of Thailand just 315 kilometers southeast of Bangkok, this island is incredibly mountainous and lush rainforest, Koh Chang is perhaps the best-preserved island in Southeast Asia. Beaches, waterfalls, coral reefs and wildlife abound. Koh Chang, a 30-kilometer strip of the island with spectacular waterfalls, a rich evergreen forest, idyllic scenery, clear blue waters, crystalline sand and dazzling coral reefs, is indeed an ideal place for beach and nature lovers. For snorkeling and scuba diving enthusiasts, the Marine Park, acclaimed for its incredible corals and aquatic life - should not be missed.

Chiang Rai (Golden Triangle)

Chiang Rai, the northernmost province of Thailand, lies in the heart of the notorious Golden Triangle, the area where the borders of Thailand, Myanmar, and Laos converge. It is well known for its stunning mountain scenery and is home to several different hill tribes. The main hill tribe groups in this region are Hmong, Karen, Lahu, Lisu, Akha and Mien. These ethnic minorities began to arrive in Thailand at the end of the 19th century. They were forced out of their native countries, such as Myanmar, China, and Tibet by civil war and political pressures. Each hill tribe has its own customs, culture, religion, clothing and language.

Chiang Mai

It is one of the few places in Thailand to experience modern Thai culture with history. Old temples sit next to modern shops and boutique hotels. The moats circled old city, retains much of the fortified wall that once protected the centre of the former Lanna capital city. Ethnic hill tribes, cooking and massage schools, handicraft workshops, cultural performances, festivals, outdoor pursuits and amazing scenery make Chiang Mai one of Asia's most attractive tourist destinations.

Hua Hin

Hua Hin is Thailand's premier beach resort town, less than 200kms from Bangkok. Known for its beautiful powdery sand beach, lively night market, many beach activities, numerous seaside restaurants and renowned golf courses and the popular music festival, the Hua Hin Jazz Festival. On the coast of Takiab Bay, take seaside horseback rides and visit a hilltop Buddhist temple with spectacular views. Stay at simple beach huts & guest houses or luxury resorts including some of the finest spa retreats in the world.

This portion of the island is administered by Malaysia except for a small state of Brunei, which is an independent country, quite popular for its abundant oil reserves. Denpasar Denpasar is the capital of Bali and has a number of cultural and historical sites. It has many community temples called "Pura". Bali's picturesque countryside and most of the beautiful temples are just outside the limit of Denpasar. Some of the villages worth visiting are Celuk (for its silverware), Ubud (to have a glimpse of the finest of Bali's art-dance, music, and paintings) and Bedulu for its elephant cave.

Kuta

Kuta city of Indonesia magnetizes surfers and sunbathers due to its beaches. And even one can find a great display of animals there too, but do not worry they will not harm you. It is also known as the Sea Surfers' Paradise. Discovered by the hippies in the early 1960s, Kuta is a popular beach for surfing although currents make it less suitable for swimming. It is also famous for its magnificent sunset, nightlife, and shopping options.

Nusa Dua

The Nusa Dua tourist resort is known for its clean white beaches and clear waters. Some of the most beautiful and luxurious hotels are found here. It is also famous for its mouthwatering cuisine. During the rainy season, the beach provides excellent surfing conditions.

Ubud

The town of Ubud is known for traditional crafts and dance. Main street has dozens of art studios and galleries, along with an excellent local crafts market selling antiques, woodcarvings, crafts, textiles, paintings, and jewellery. The surrounding rainforest and terraced rice paddies, dotted with Hindu temples and shrines, are among Bali's most famous landscapes.
